UBON RATCHATHANI

INTRODUCTION

Social lives are so complicated that men are different in their needs. No one can do only his work, without seeking recreation. Some may prefer physical exercise, for example, jogging, walking, swimming, playing badminton or tennis, or golfing. Some may travel to visit ancient ruins, temples, handicraft villages, waterfalls, forests, caves, beaches, etc. Tourist attractions in Thailand are numerous for both foreigners and Thais themselves.

Ubon Ratchathani or "Lotus City", a major province in the northeastern part of the country, generally known as I-San, combines prehistorical culture, ancient customs, traditions and arts with picturesque scenery in an attractive and distinctive ambience. Those attractive areas include Wat Nong Pa Phong, Wat Pa Nana Chat, Wat Pa Yai, Wat Nong Bua, Wat Supattanaram, Wat Thung Sri Muang, Wat Chaeng, and Wat Ban Namuang, Wat Phu Khao Kaew, Pha Taem prehistoric rock paintings, the Two Coloured River where you can see the sunshine before others in Thailand, the Emerald Triangle – the gateway to Laos (Chong Mek) and Cambodia (Chong And Man) Soi Sawan Waterfall, Saeng Chan Waterfall, Tham Bak Theo Waterfall, Sirinthon Dam, Pak Mun Dam, Kaeng Sapu, Kaeng Tana National Park and the Phuchong-Nayoi National Park, the Lenten Candle Festival, Kaeng Sapu's Songkran Festival, the Young Grain Rice Center, the International Airport which will be the gateway to Indo-china countries comprise added attractions. The naturally good and cheerful disposition of the people will unendingly impress you.

Come join us at Ubon Ratchathani.

ATTRACTIONS

Wat Thung Sri Muang

Located on Luang Road, opposite the provincial kindergarten school. The major chapel, 200 years old, was constructed during the early Chakri dynasty. Interior walls were beautifully painted, showing the culture and history of the ancient Ubon people. Some paintings are somewhat erotic. Ho Trai, a scriptural repository made of teak, built in the middle of the pond, contains holy Buddhist books, inlaid with gold leaves.

Wat Supattanaram

Located on the bank of the Mun River, the temple had been used as a harbour for a long time. The major chapel combines architecture of Thai, European, and Khmer styles. Pong, the biggest wooden bell in Thailand, emits a wonderful, classical sound. The temple also contains stone bai sema, or boundary stones, and beautiful engraved sand stone pieces.

Wat Chaeng

Located on Saphasit Road, the major chapel incorporates traditional I-San design, called "Sim" in the local dialect. The temple received a special award from the Siam Architecture Association in 1987.

Wat Mahawanaram (Pa-Yai)

Located on Saphasit Road, the temple is more than 200 years old, and has become the symbol of Ubon. The holy beautiful Buddha image named "Phrachao Yai Indra paeng" is regularly worshipped by people in Ubon and from neighbouring provinces.

Wat Sri Ubon Ratanaram (Wat Sri Thong)

Located on Uparat Road, the major chapel was modelled on that of Wat Benchama Bophit, Bangkok. The beautiful Buddha image was made of topaz, in the Chieng Saen period. It is believed that this is the biggest piece of topaz in Thailand. Every year on Songkran Day, the Buddha image is bathed by worshippers.

Wat Nong Bua

Located on Chayangkul Road, the Chedi was modelled after Buddhakhaya chedi in India, where Lord Buddha attained enlightenment. The Chedi contains Buddhist relics. It was built in 1957, the year celebrating the 25th century of Buddhism. To worship this Chedi means to worship the Buddhakhaya Chedi, hence, it is not necessary to visit India.

Wat Ban Namuang

Located near the provincial airport, the major chapel was designed in the form of a Royal Barge engraved with ceramics. The abbot, Phra Acharn Mee, is revered by his followers.

Ubon National Museum

Located on Khuan Thani Road, the single-storied building, built in 1873, was formerly the Governor's office. The former governor, Lieutenant Danai Ketsire established it as a provincial national museum, which is accepted as one of the best in Thailand.

Wat Tai Beach

After the rainy season, a small island appears in the middle of the Moon River. It is beautiful with cool trees, and soft gold sands. Foods, roasted fish or chicken, and drinks are available. The place is suitable for relaxation.

Khudua Beach

Located on the bank of the Moon River, the beach is 12 kms. from the provincial capital. Foods and drinks are available on bamboo rafts.

Bronzeware, Ban Pa-Aw

For more than 200 years, bronzeware has been produced by the "Lost wax" method. The products are taopoon and, pha-op. A bronzeware village is on Chaeng sa-nit Road, 17 Kms. from the provincial capital.

Lak Muang Hall

Located at the provincial capital's center the holy hall was established in 1972. Nearby stands the Phra Ubali statue. Phra Ubali was the teacher of Phra Mahawirawong who was both administrator and educator and become the first president of the Monk Association of Thailand.

Thung Sri Muang Field

Located at the provincial capital's geographic center, the field is similar to Sanam Luang in Bangkok, where people congregate for recreation. Here stands the Thao Khamphong statue, the founder of the city. Nearby is the Monument of Merit, the symbol of unlimited relationship of Ubon people, which was built by alliance countries during the Great East Asian War.

Wat Nong Pa Phong

Located in Warinchamrab district, 12 kms. from the provincial capital, the temple is cool and calm with densely wooded areas. The former abbot, Luangpho Cha, is revered. Those who visit the city should also visit this temple.

Wat Pa Nana Chat

Located in Warinchamrab district, on the road to Sri-saket, 12 kms. from the provincial capital, the temple is a branch of Wat Nong Pa Pong. The abbot is a Canadian, who speaks fluent Thai. The monks have only one meal a day. The followers practice Dhamma and meditation.

Wat Tham Khuha Sawan

Located in Khongchiem district, 73 kms. from the provincial capital, the temple was built in 1978 by Luang Poo Khaning Chulmanee. After death, his corpse did not decay. It is preserved in a glass box, inlaid with Russian jewels. Picturesque Mekhong River scenery can be appreciated here.

Wat Phra Lao Thep Nimit

Located in Phana district, the major chapel is in Lanna style architecture. The beautiful Buddha image is similar to that in Wat Thatthong in Laos. People believe that it is the most beautiful in I-San.

Wat Phu Khao Kaew

Located in Phibul Mangsaharn district, 48 kms. from the provincial capital, the ordination hall is wholly inlaid with glazed ceramic tiles.

Phu Lon Monk Place

Located in Tambol Song Yang, Sri Muang Mai district, 78 kms. from the provincial capital, the holy place was the residence of Phra Acharn Mun Phuritatho. The ashram was built of soil and grass. While Meditating, a tiger tried to injure him, but could not. The footprints of the tiger were left on the ashram wall.

Wat Tham Heo Sinchai

Located in Khongchiem district, 7 kms. from the district center the temple is surrounded by trees, caves, and rocks. It is particularly picturesque during the rainy season.

Pha Taem

Located on the bank of the Mekhong River, in Khongchiem district, 95 kms. from the provincial capital, the cliffs are adorned with 4,000-year-old paintings. Paintings some 200 metres long, depict giant catfish, elephants, turtles, dogs, cows, handpalms, and fishing scenes. The scenery is splendid with beautiful multi-coloured flowers, especially during the late rainy season.

The Two-coloured River

Located in Khongchiem district, the muddy Mekhong River and the indigo-blue Moon River meet in the area of Ban Woen Buk. Here can be appreciated the beautiful scenery of both the Thai and Lao banks.

Kaeng Tana Rapids

Located in Khongchiem district, 13 kms. to the left of the Phipul-Chongmek Road, the rapids are full of rocks lying across the Moon River. Guest houses are available under the control of the Forestry Department. During the past, French troops tried to destroy the rapids for easier water transportation, but the Thai Government did not permit such destruction. Hence, the Pibul-Choungmek Road was constructed instead, by prisoners-of-war.

Sae Hua Maew

Located in Phibul district, near the 19th km stone, Sae is composed of beach, rocks and waterfalls. The area is suitable for camping, where beautiful multi-coloured flowers are evident, especially during the rainy and cool seasons.

Soi Sawan Waterfall

Located in Khongchiem district, 30 kms. from the district center, the water flows 20 metres from two high cliffs, which are Huay Soi and Lum Sae. Flowing to a meeting point, the falls resemble a necklace. There is abundant water throughout the year.

Huay Luany Waterfall

Located in Ban Kaeng Kung, Nachaluay district, 100 kms. from the provincial center, the water flows noisily along the high cliff to a rock field. The area is surrounded by thick forest.

Saengchan Waterfall

Located in Khongchiem district, this especially beautiful waterfall flows into a rock basin. Many trees, give the impression of a Japanese garden. A cave is suitable for camping.

Sirinthorn Dam

Located in Phibul district, 75 kms. from the provincial capital, the dam provides electricity and irrigation. Many fish occupy the extensive reservoir. Guest houses and inexpensive fish food are available.

Kaeng Sapu Rapids

In Amphoe Phibul Mangsahan, some 45 kilometres east of Ubon, water splashes over rocks and outcrops in the Mun River during the dry season months.

MAJOR EVENTS & FESTIVALS

Known as the 'Candle Festival', this special event is appreciated by many tourists, and is supported by the Tourism Authority of Thailand. The beautifully embellished beeswax candles form the centre of activities. There are parades and processions, folk dances and general merriment before the candles are presented to local temples.

SHOPPING & HANDICRAFTS

Cloth – Silk and “khit” patterned cloth are of fine quality.

Handicrafts – Locally produced bamboo wares and “Khit” patterned pillow are the province’s best buys.

DINING

Thai, Chinese and European food is widely available in quality restaurants and hotels. The traditional I-San cuisine is the most distinctive of Thailand’s regional cuisines and, many would claim, its most delicious.

The cuisine makes extensive use of herbs and spices, particularly, ginger, garlic, shallots, mint, fresh, fried and dried chillies which activate the most jaded of taste buds, and makes great use of raw, fresh vegetables and is customarily eaten with the staple I-San diet of glutinous rice.

Popular I-San dishes include

SOM TAM A popular salad made with shredded green papaya, tomatoes, garlic, guinea peppers, sugar, lemons, dried shrimps and fish sauce.

KAI YANG I-San’s incomparably delicious grilled chicken.

LARB Minced beef, or pork, or catfish, or chicken, mixed with rice flour, chopped shallots, dried chillies and garnished with mint leaves and lemon juice.

NUA NAMTOK Lightly grilled beef slices garnished with sliced shallots, rice flour, dried chillies, lemon juice and fresh mint leaves.

SUP NO MAI Slightly moist shredded bamboo shoot salad flavoured with lemon juice, chopped shallots, rice flour, dried chillies.

SAI KROK I-SAN Sausage filled with minced pork, garlic and rice, grilled, and eaten with sliced ginger, dry fried peanuts, grilled chillies and raw, fresh vegetables.

GOLF COURSE

Located at the Roysi Thai Airforce base, 21 th field, and at Army Force base 6, the field, Warinchamrab, the nine-hole course is the cheapest in Thailand. Green fee is 40 baht. Caddy fee is also 40 baht.

NEIGHBOURING PROVINCES

Nakhon Phanom

Nakhon Phanom's best-known attraction is Phra That Phanom, a shrine some 1,500 years old. The 52-meter high pagoda hosts annual celebrations during the third lunar month when thousands of worshippers flock to Nakhon Phanom to pay homage to this sacred shrine. The religious monument at Renu Nakhon, a smaller replica of the Phra That Phanom, is called Phra That Renu Nakhon. Nakhon Phanom is 740 kilometers from Bangkok.

Yasothon

Yasothon was created a separate administrative entity from Ubon in 1972. Here is the home of the famous Soeng Bung Fai, the Rocket Festival, which is staged on a grand scale every year around mid-May with active support from the Tourism Authority of Thailand. There is a prehistoric park at Ban Tat Thong where prehistoric human skeletons have been found. Yasothon is 531 kilometers from Bangkok.

Sakon Nakhon

Sakon Nakhon is the town of the sacred Phra That Choeng Chum and the vast Nong-Han Lake. The Phu Thai tribe people living around the town offer an interesting study in ancient customs and traditions, such as the "Wax Castle" festival in October when miniature castles fashioned from wax are created. Sakon Nakhon is 647 kilometers from Bangkok.

Mukdahan

The newest province of the Northeast is Mukdahan, which came into being in September, 1982. Mukdahan is located on the bank of the Mekhong River opposite Suwannakhet in Laos, 600 kilometers from Bangkok. Mukdahan is famous for its picturesque riverine scenery. Mukdahan town, the Mekhong River and Suwannakhet can be viewed from the top of Phu Manorum which is located some 3 kms. south of Mukdahan municipality.

Si Saket

The provincial capital is 568 kilometres northeast of Bangkok. Provincial attractions are mainly Khmer sanctuaries. Almost all are in ruinous state. Prasat Hin Wat Kamphaeng Yai in Amphoe Uthumphon Phisai, Sa Kamphaeng village on Route 2080, evokes genuine grandeur despite its ruinous state. The 10th century shrine's delicate carving and monumentality evoke an original splendour that might have rivalled Phimai. The sanctuary is believed to have been constructed during the reign of King Suriyaworaman, one of the greatest Khmer rulers.
